Application Guidelines

Eligible Applicants

Applicants may be an individual or a group. In a group application, a representative must be designated as its lead proponent. Applicants shall meet the following criteria:

- 1) The applicant shall be a faculty member, researcher or student from one of the eligible universities and who is to undertake the research in the country where the affiliation is located.
- 2) The applicant shall have made an exemplary accomplishment in research and development in the fields of science and technology, and must show evidence of project impact and innovation that may include but is not limited to published research papers, conference presentations, acquired patents, and an accompanying social implementation plan.
- 3) The applicant shall be endorsed by his or her affiliation.

Application Documents

Applicants shall prepare the following documents in English, and English translation shall be attached if any submitted document is written in your local language.

- 1) Application form
  - Please complete the application form. Any application missing required information will not be accepted.
  - The application form should not exceed five pages from the section of “Applicant Details” to “Biography.”
  - Please create an R&D introduction video, up to five minutes in length, upload the video to Google Drive, and indicate a web link to the video in the application form.
  - Please update the browser to the latest version, as old versions may cause an error.
  - Please make sure that the video does not have any issues of copyright or portrait rights.
  - Please submit the application form in Word format.
  - Please make sure that the applicant reads the precautions for handling information at the end of the application form. Check the box if the applicant agrees.
  - Please refer to the “How to fill in the application form” documents for further details.
- 2) Recommendation letter
  - Please have the letter prepared and signed by the head (director or above position) of the department of the applicant. The letter shall include the reason for the recommendation, the selection process (whether it is an institutional or individual nomination), and expectations of the applicant’s R&D and social implementation plan.
  - Please submit the letter in PDF.
- 3) Attachments
  - Please submit up to three kinds of evidence of the applicant’s R&D achievement. Include one achievement in each file. Each file should be approximately 10 pages or less.
  - It is recommended that at least one research paper be submitted as evidence of the applicant’s R&D achievement.
- 4) The attachments shall be submitted in PDF.
